The honest problem

Van Born has been serving Dearborn Heights since 1968. That's the kind of track record that earns trust before a prospect ever visits. The current public site makes that trust harder to extend online: it's not mobile-friendly, click-to-call doesn't work the way people expect on a phone, and the wellness library is there but doesn't surface on the homepage. I won't tell you it'll triple your new-patient count — I don't know that, and neither does anyone else. What I do know is the bar in your category is reachable in a week of focused work, and I built it so you can see it.

What I built (live, ready to use)

I spent several hours with your published content and built a complete mobile-first site using your own:

- Doctor bios for Dr. Renee I. Pethtel (featured on the homepage) and Dr. Donald G. Pethtel, drawn from your staff page
- Real patient testimonials with names and roles, taken verbatim from your testimonial page
- Your wellness library, organized by body area
- Your patient forms linked to your actual PDFs (verified)
- Your hours, address, phone — no placeholders

Open the demo on your phone right now: <https://dylanthrp.github.io/vanborn-chiro-demo/>

Home	Tap-to-call in the header, care topics, your doctors, published testimonials, hours, map
About Us	Dr. Renee leads the page; full bios for both doctors; front-desk and massage staff
Patient stories	14 published testimonials, faithful to original wording
Services	6 service cards based on your published services list
Pediatric / Sports	Standalone pages mirroring your patient-education pages
Wellness Library	Six index pages (back, neck, sciatica, carpal, joints, foot)
Patient resources	New-patient forms, HIPAA, disability indexes (PDFs)

What it would cost

One-time build (50% off launch)	$1,250
Optional hosting + maintenance	$50 / month, cancel anytime

The setup is half off my normal launch rate because this would be my first medical-practice deployment — I'd rather earn the relationship than maximize the first contract. The monthly is optional and covers hosting, security updates, content edits and link checks.

What I need from you

1. A 30-minute walkthrough of what's there and what to change
2. Approval on any wording edits before the site goes live on your real domain
3. Your registrar login — or I'll register `vanbornchiro.com` (~$12/year) in your name

What I do after you say yes

1. 30-min content alignment meeting
2. Register or transfer `vanbornchiro.com` into your name
3. Set up Cloudflare DNS to point your domain at the new site (about 10 minutes)
4. Push the live version to your real URL — same look, your real domain
5. Total: roughly 5–7 business days from green-light

Not in scope (priced separately if needed): online booking integration with your scheduling software; a blog with monthly posts; paid search / Google Ads management.

I'll never without your written OK: change your hours, address, or phone; use a patient's testimonial or photo beyond what they agreed to; put anything medical on the site that isn't from your own published pages.

Why I'll be honest about my experience

I'm a mechanical engineering student at UM-Dearborn, not a web-design firm — I won't pretend otherwise. What I will say:

- Every line of HTML, CSS, and JavaScript in the demo is mine — no AI filler, no template copy
- When we finish, I hand everything off: a private GitHub repo in your name, every asset, every credential
- You own the work outright the moment I send the final invoice

Next step — three options, take whichever fits

1. Look at the live demo on your own schedule: <https://dylanthrp.github.io/vanborn-chiro-demo/>
2. Email a question: dylanthrp@gmail.com
3. Call or text to set up a 20-minute in-person walkthrough at the clinic: (fill in your number)

Thanks for the time. — Dylan Thrupp
